§ 200.735–1 Purpose.

This subpart sets forth the standards of ethical conduct required of members, employees and special Government employees, and former members and employees of the Securities and Exchange Commission. It is a further revision of a comprehensive conduct regulation first adopted by the Commission in 1953 “to restate the ethical principles which it believes should govern and have governed the conduct of members and employees and former members and employees of the Commission.”<sup>1</sup> This revision is necessary to provide members, employees, special Government employees and former Commission members and employees with a comprehensive statement of standards of conduct which are dictated by applicable Federal law, Executive orders, and the Commission’s own requirements.

<sup>1</sup>The last major revision of the Conduct Regulation was done in 1966 to implement Executive Order 11222, May 8, 1965, and part 735 of the Civil Service Commission regulations (5 CFR part 735) adopted pursuant thereto. It also contains references to the several applicable statutes governing employee conduct, particularly Pub. L. 87–849

§ 200.735–2 Policy.

(a) The Securities and Exchange Commission has been entrusted by Congress with the protection of the public interest in a highly significant area of our national economy. In view of the effect which Commission action frequently has on the general public, it is important that members, employees and special Government employees maintain unusually high standards of honesty, integrity, impartiality and conduct. They must be constantly aware of the need to avoid situations which might result either in actual or apparent misconduct or conflicts of interest and to conduct themselves in their official relationships in a manner which commands the respect and confidence of their fellow citizens.

(b) For these reasons, members, employees and special Government employees should at all times abide by the standards of conduct set forth in this subpart, the canons of ethics for members of the Securities and Exchange Commission (subpart C of this part 200) and, in the case of a professional person, the ethical standards applicable to the profession of such person.

§ 200.735–3 General provisions.

(a)(1) In considering the prohibitions of this section, members and employees must constantly be aware that the provisions here enumerated set forth standards of conduct which are broader than the specific applications stated in the rules which follow. Therefore, members and employees should look to these general prohibitions when assessing the advisability of a particular course of conduct. The broadly stated provisions of this rule are aimed at
